AFRICAN PROVERB

Political unrest and poor infrastructure are often cited as the main barriers to Africa's development. However, the lack of local skills and education contribute to a shortage of human resources that also limit development. Companies planning to expand into Africa need to consider where and how they will source and develop the human capital to drive their expansion strategies. The focus of this conference is on Leadership, Management, Ethics, Disruptive Innovation, Talent Management, People Analytics, Learning and Skills Development.

I just wanted to thank you for the wonderful conference experience. Everything was superbly organised and arranged. I don't even want to imagine the amount of work that must have gone into planning and executing such an event. I learned so much and have been truly stimulated in terms of thought, questions and future initiatives...
