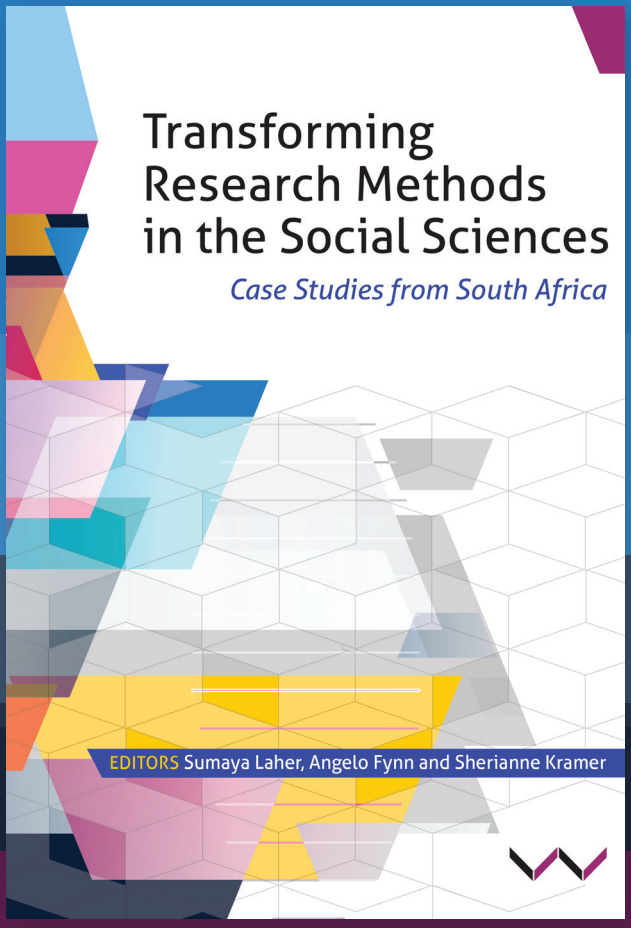
Wits University Press has the pleasure of inviting you to the launch of



TRANSFORMING RESEARCH METHODS IN THE SOCIAL SIENCES

EDITED BY SUMAYA LAHER, ANGELO FYNN AND SHERIANNE KRAMER

Can research methods be transformed and transformative? Researchers answering this question engage in a complex context in South Africa. The book confronts the reality of methodologically poor and conceptually flawed research with case studies that provide guidance to researchers to develop transformative research.

Join Sumaya Laher (co-editor of the book and Professor at Wits Psychology department) with guest speakers, Prof Garth Stevens (Dean, Humanities at Wits and president elect of the Psychological Society of South Africa); chapter author, Peace Kiguwa (Associate Prof - Wits Psychology department) and chapter author, Brendon Barnes (Prof and HOD UJ Psychology department)
