

8th International Conference of Community Psychology, Melbourne, Australia

Fostering and Sustaining Solidarities Communities, Activism, Knowledges & Environments

While we are re-imagining a virtual ICCP for the near future, we are keeping our conference themes alive through a series of free webinars. The first will be a dialogue between activist scholars across nations and cultures.

Critical transnational conversations on structural violence and radical possibilities

Michelle Fine

Distinguished Professor of Critical Psychology, Women's Studies, American Studies and Urban Education at the Graduate Center, CUNY. A pioneer in the field of youth Participatory Action Research, and a founding faculty member of the Public Science Project, Michelle has been involved with a series of participatory studies with youth and elders, working at the intersections of movements for educational, immigration and juvenile justice.

Paola Balla

An award winning visual artist, curator writer and lecturer and current PhD candidate at Victoria University's Moondani Balluk Indigenous Academic Centre. Paola's research focuses on blak women's art and activism and its role in disrupting patriarchal and colonial dominant narratives and spaces. Paola's writing has been published by The Lifted Brow, Etchings Indigenous, Writers Victoria, Artlink, Freize (UK), SBS & NITV

Jesica Fernández

Assistant Professor in the Ethnic Studies Department at Santa Clara University, California. Through the use of community based participatory action research (CBPAR), and rooted in decolonial feminisms, critical race theory and intersectionality, as well as Global South liberation-oriented paradigms, Jesica's scholarship strives to support and cultivate the sociopolitical development and healing/wellbeing of Latinx communities, youth, and student of color activists.
